

THE SCHOOL PROMISE

The past and the present, both marred by wars and terror inflicted on people of other ethnicity, religion, skin colour, and nationality, have taught us that we, the inhabitants of Earth, are still struggling to acknowledge and honour what we all have in common—our humanity. Time and time again, we have faced tests in which we've had our chance to prove our common humanity and, while some stood up and answered the call—showing kindness and care, many more failed. Now, as the world is facing another test in Ukraine, we are once again given the chance to embrace our humanity and stand up for each other.

At Transylvania College, we are committed to learning the lessons in humanity from the past. We hope that, by pledging your allegiance to this project, you will join us in our mission to help the world become a peaceful place where humans can thrive and can go on to live their best lives, safely.

PROMISE:

- By taking part in this project, our school promises to learn a lesson in humanity through the Humanity Day project. We will use the awareness and apply the learnings to make a difference in our community through unsolicited acts of kindness. Kindness starts with each one of us. The world will be a better place if we choose to care and be there for each other.
- We promise to join a worldwide community committed to peace and to strive for humanity together.
- By dressing in blue and yellow, the colours of the Ukrainian flag, we will raise awareness among the students and staff within the school and throughout the entire community in regard to the disruptive effect that war has on families, on children's education and their lifelong dreams, and on societies. Through small donations from each student on this day, we will also help raise funds which will go towards helping those who have been affected by the conflict in Ukraine. We will go further by providing space for our students to share with their peers the lessons they have learned in humanity.
- We will strive for a better, kinder world each year on 24th of March, when we will be celebrating Humanity Day.
